Uniform

Normanhurst Boys' High School is a uniform school. As such the expectation is that all students comply with the school's uniform code and every attempt is made to help students wear complete uniform. The majority of students at our school adhere with these requirements and play their part in maintaining the school's reputation in our local community and further a-field.

The school recognises that from time to time a student may not be able to comply with the school's uniform code (see later) for a variety of reasons. With this in mind the school has implemented the following procedure to assist students who may have difficulty in complying with the uniform code:

Students who are not in correct school uniform will need to report to the uniform coordinator, Mr Spoor at the HSIE Staffroom before school with a note from home explaining why they are out of uniform. If the problem involves either a school jumper or a school tie the student will be lent the appropriate article of clothing. Students will sign for the clothing and return it to the uniform coordinator before school the following morning. If the problem involves other uniform items, students must still report to the uniform coordinator with a note explaining the problem and indicate the steps being taken to comply with the uniform code.

The lending of clothing is to assist students with short-term difficulties with uniform. Students who are confronted with long term problems with uniform should see the uniform coordinator with a note from home. These students will be referred to the Principal.

Monitoring of school uniform is a whole staff responsibility.
